

THE AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

The Exhibits and Some of the Awards.

Kapiolani Park presented a scene of industry yester-forenoon, in which carpenters, horsemen, and exhibitors of all varieties sustained the principal parts. It was hard work all around, and even at noon when the show was declared open, there were many crooked lines in the Exhibition which had not been straightened out. The attendance, though not extraordinary, still was quite encouraging for a first day. The principal interest in the forenoon hours was concentrated in the horses; but later on, when the ladies arrived, the fruits, flowers, and fancy exhibits were not neglected. The dog show was not extensive, but in the lot were some really fine sporting dogs.

The poultry exhibit was slim, but the live stock had a good representation. It is expected that to-day will see the Park thronged. One of its most interesting features will be the general horse parade before the judges.

THE EXHIBITS.

The show of horseflesh was striking, for a place in which anything like a general endeavor to breed good stock is of such recent origin. We must postpone anything in the way of a general account of the exhibits in this division until our next issue, when we shall also be able to give the awards of the judges. There were eighty-five animals catalogued, besides a number of foals running with their dams. Of these twenty-four were stallions, and thirty were mares, a majority in both cases being native-bred. It was observed on all hands that the show of young stock exceeded in quality as much as in numbers that of last year. Among the cattle were fifteen valuable bulls, ten cows, two yoke of working oxen, fourteen heifers, and a number of calves. The awards of the judges were not sent in yesterday. Owing to the scantiness of the accommodation provided, the cattle were scattered about under the trees, and in some enclosed lots on the mauka side of the main avenue, and very little of them was seen by the majority of the visitors. The entries in the other divisions of the programme were much less numerous. Some very good poultry were shown, and a number of valuable dogs. The accommodation for both was inadequate, and very much exposed to the sun during the afternoon. We give below the awards in these and some other divisions. There was no competition in dairy produce, but the three samples sent in were of an excellent quality, and deservedly received prizes. The cheese from Ahuimanu ranch attracted much attention. If such cheeses can be made here in quantity, we certainly need not send abroad for this article of consumption. The question is—will island-made cheese keep properly? We have never yet heard of any that did. It is much to be regretted that so little interest is taken in the making of butter and cheese; that there were not even two competitors for any of the handsome prizes the Society gives. The show of pigs was very slender, but those exhibited were highly spoken of by those who understand what a pig ought to be. The division "Domestic Manufactures" covers a wide range of exhibits from native tapas and calabashes to wagons and carriages. Mr. Hammer exhibited home-made harness; the Hawaiian Carriage Company some handsome vehicles; Messrs. Rewcastle and Sager, an express wagon; Mr. Macdonald and Mr. McLain, some hand-made horseshoes and plates of fine workmanship, and Mr. Mulen sent two hammocks. Of native Hawaiian workmanship, the Princess Kaiulani was the only exhibitor. The feature, however, of this part of the show which attracted most attention was Messrs. J. W. Hingley & Co's. exhibit of Honolulu made cigars. The process of manufacture was carried on at the show, and many for the first time saw a cigar made. Though afraid to offer critical remarks about bulls, stallions, or pigs, the Advertiser reporter assumes to know what a cigar ought to be, and from actual experiment can venture to say that Mr. Hingley's are of first-rate quality. No sheep were exhibited yesterday, those entered for the show only arriving in the steamer City of Paris. We understand that there is a probability of these being on show to-day. From what we had heard we were hardly prepared to see so many fine horticultural exhibits. These brightened up the pavilion and made an agreeable variety to the other exhibits. Two splendid bouquets of flowers, one sent by Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, and the other by Mr. Jaeger. Mr. Cleghorn's bouquet contained no less than forty varieties; but Mr. Jaeger's was larger and more imposing in its masses of color, and obtained the prize. The show of fruit included muscatel grapes from Captain Babcock's garden, a bunch of splendid bananas grown by Mr. Wundenberg, some handsome mangoes of great size sent by Mrs. Ward, figs and guavas by Mr. Jaeger, and a dainty basket of fruit by Mrs. T. Foster. Among the agricultural products were a fine series of varieties of the sugar cane. A bundle of finely grown corn sent by Judge McCully was also a conspicuous object.

THE AWARDS.

The following are the awards of judges as delivered up to 5 P.M. yesterday:—

Jaeger; cypripediums, A. Jaeger; pansies, Miss Mary Alexander; native trees, C. Willing; colons and geraniums, Princess Kaiulani; best basket of fruit, Mrs. T. R. Foster; grapes, Captain Babcock; Lichees, C. Afong; peaches, Chas. Brenig; cocoanuts and mangoes, Mrs. C. P. Ward; alligator pears and mummy apples, Mrs. F. Love; red guavas (mandarins), A. Jaeger; pine apples, Geo. Allen; bananas, Mrs. Dexter; squashes, G. Silva (Waiialua); assortment of vegetables, Carl Willing. Judges of flowers and plants, Dr. McKibben, Dr. Trounseau, Mrs. Geo. Beckley; of fruits and vegetables, Mrs. Haalelea, Miss E. L. Coney, and J. L. Richardson.

Division XII—Agricultural Implements and Machinery. First prize to E. O. Hall & Son, for furrow plow, steel side-hill plow, gauge cultivator; B. F. Dillingham, for breaker plow, rice plow and harrow (small); to Castle & Cooke, for rolling coultter and Blake's pump; second prize to E. O. Hall & Son for steel breaking plow, rock breaker and plows Nos. 4 to 10 inclusive; to Dillingham & Co. for furrow plow; and to Castle & Cooke for plow; also honorable mention to the Kilauea Sugar Company for subsoil plow. Judges, Hon. Paul Isenberg, J. L. Richardson, and L. Ahlborn.

It should be stated that in consequence of the absence of some, and the inability of others, to meet their colleagues at times suiting the latter, many judges originally selected were replaced by others.

A SUMMER EXCURSION.

If to slip almost noiselessly over the surface of a Summer sea be the object of the voyager, then the trip from San Francisco to this port fills the measure of his desire. It is the reaping of the full delight of sea travel, without any of its inconvenience, the perfect harvesting of the wheat of ocean enjoyment, without ordered stomach. The crossing of the pond, as the glib traveller now terms the Atlantic, means for the great majority confinement for forty-eight hours in a narrow store-room until brain and nerves have been accustomed to the rolling and pitching, combined and separately. But at this season of the year the individual whose sea experiences have never extended beyond a half-hour's cruise in a ferry boat may put on all the airs of an old sailor when starting for the Hawaiian Islands, confident that no unruly billows will appear to the destruction of those pretensions.

This is one of the reasons why tourists are including the Hawaiian excursion in their wanderings. Another is the glimpse at the condensation of tropical scenery, such as the Island present. To the people of a temperate climate the tropics team with attractiveness. And here the Islands are in odd harmony with the ocean path which leads from the Continent to their doors. For as this voyage is the ocean without any of its terrors, so the Islands are the tropics free from the dangers and annoyances we find in the less favored regions of the low latitudes. It is no compliment to say of the Oceanic Steamship Company's vessels that they are the main factors in the promotion of island visiting. They are unsurpassed in point of comfort, cleanliness, and security. The usual smell—the nauseating fiend composed partly of stale steam, partly of vapors from the oil-room, and partly from demonstrative and insistent pantry essences has no resting-place on these steamers. He is denied a passage. We do not know if he find a place near the gangway even in port, but we are positive that he can neither work his passage, or get to sea as a stowaway.

That refined, intelligent and enterprising people should make these Islands their home is in every sense most desirable. There are abundant opportunities for the employment of capital in virgin sources which would leave the country not dependent upon a single staple for its prosperity. Were California to lean upon its mineral development alone, it would be in a bad plight to-day, but with wheat, wine, and fruit, she can afford the closing of many once valuable ground holes. So it should be with these Islands, and so undoubtedly it will be when new blood and new endeavor operate within their limits.

The House adjourned at noon until 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

THE RACES.

Under the Auspices of the Hawaiian Jockey Club.

The celebration of Kamehameha Day in Honolulu was a grand success yesterday. Everybody was prepared for sport and all were furnished with it. The weather was superb, a few showers during the night tending to lay the dust, whilst the clouded sky in the forenoon rendered the air cool and pleasant. The arrangements of the Jockey Club were perfect and everyone appreciated their efforts in conducting to the public comfort.

The attendance was unusually large and the racing was unusually good.

The Kaulani Plate was the opening race of the day, and resulted in a victory for Mr. Cummin's Daisy, closely pressed by Major.

The race of the day was the Kohala Club Cup, and according to betting, Idle Girl was the favorite. This mare was offered against the field, but with few takers. A rank outsider that has run for three years on this course without gaining first place, had the honor of winning the race.

The other races were won by the best horses, and the results were generally satisfactory.

His Majesty graced the grand stand with his presence, and other members of the Royal family were also present. The band discoursed popular and appropriate airs throughout the day.

The results were as follows:

Kaulani Cup—$75. Running race; mile dash; open to all horses bred in the Kingdom that have never run at Kapiolani Park.
